TIME TO READ!

BEFORE WE READ, LET'S LOOK AT...

The Cover: "What do you think the problem of this story is going to be based on this picture?"

The Pictures: The thrill of this story is the humor and suspense. Use only the title page picture to begin a discussion with students about their familiarity with hamsters.

Prior Knowledge: Ask students what the word memoir makes them think of. Explain that a memoir is a written account of someone's personal life experiences in the past. In this case, Seymour the hamster is writing the memoir. Contrast memoir with diary.

Vocabulary: hydrated, marathon, shimmied

Purpose for Reading: "The author provides clues about hamsters through Seymour's memoir. Focus on the inferences you can make about the lifestyle of a real hamster using those clues."

WHILE WE READ

MONITORING COMPREHENSION

- ◆ Where do you think Seymour was prior to night one?
- ◆ Who is the narrator of the story?
- ◆ Does Pearl remind you of a cat from another story? Explain.
- ◆ Who do you think Hoover is?
- ◆ Do you think Buck knew about Pearl's plan?

LET'S THINK ABOUT

Our Purpose: "What inferences were you able to make about real hamsters based on the author's clues?"

Extending Our Thinking: Ask these open-ended questions: "What character traits would you use to describe Seymour, Pearl, and Buck? Do they have any similar traits? Pearl was a trickster. Can you think of other tricksters you have read about? Who are they and what were they trying to get? Do you notice any common goals?"
